

Reference Guide for Required Staff Development

Iowa Department of Education
Revised December 2008

There are two types of staff development required for school employees. One type is professional development that is established in the Student Achievement and Teacher Quality Program (281—IAC Chapter 83) for the purpose of increasing student achievement. Professional development in this category includes the training and learning opportunities that are included in the District Career Development Plan, Mentoring and Induction, and the Individual Teacher Career Development Plan. These professional development requirements include district wide structures for supporting all faculty members responsible for instructional content. Training and learning opportunities address district student learning goals and the Iowa Teaching Standards. Multicultural and gender fair training may be integrated into the content delivered as part of the district plan, as appropriate. Information regarding career development plans can be accessed at the following website: <http://www.state.ia.us/educate/ecese/tqt/tc/prodev.html>

The second type of staff development, which is the focus of this document, is the topical or specific content intended for individuals with specialized assignments or roles that necessitate specific training. Training sessions to meet these requirements, in most instances, would not be included as content in the District Career Development Plan. For example, a workshop on preventing child abuse would be necessary training for teachers, but it would not be appropriate for meeting the needs of teachers learning a new instructional strategy as part of their District Career Development Plan.

When setting the school calendar for staff development, time allocated for these topical training areas should not take the place of professional development related to the content identified in the District Career Development Plan.
